

L. P. Savani Academy Day Boarding

Class: VII

Month: July

The month of July started with some constructive projects; children were looking forward to counterbalance their dismal learning experiences of school.

Students were engrossed with their syllabus during first half of the month of July.

Students were assessed and evaluated for their academic progress. They appeared for Formative Assessment 1.

Later half of July month was a session with less academic pressure and filled with excitement. They were all getting ready for different competitions which were going to enhance their creativity and spontaneity.

Students participated in the 'Best out of Waste' competition which was for boys and Mehendi competition which was for girls. A good number of students were engrossed in the 'Thali Decoration' activity also.

Students were involved in activities based studies as well. Have a glimpse of it:

A shadow of weather report of different countries was given by science teacher.

Students were encouraged to involve in debate on general issues in the form of State Legislative Assembly.

Teacher helped students to understand the concept of framing sentence.

At last but not the least students prepared Maths blog, students match their feet with music.

We are proud to let our students give free hands to enhance their creativity.

So, we are looking forward to enhance the hidden talents and creativity in kids & create colourful atmosphere in the school.
